

Brookie's

Cape Byron Dry Gin

30 years ago, the Brook family planted an entire rainforest on their property in Cape Byron, Australia. 17 of the 25 botanicals in Brookie's Cape Byron Gin are sourced from this rainforest. The family has planted over 40,000 trees in their rainforest and continues to support sustainable environmental practices. This gin was created by Eddie Brook and Jim McEwan, the former Head Distiller of Bruichladdich whisky and creator of The Botanist Gin. Brookie's Cape Byron Gin received a 93 Point Rating from USC and was awarded Sustainable Distillery of the Year from the World Gin Awards.

RATINGS

93 Points, 2022 Ultimate Spirits Challenge: "Dry and full-bodied, this rich and heady gin has a bottom note of juniper with plenty of dried herbs and dried citrus intermingling. There is a mild Sichuan pepper heat at the end that makes this a complex, but well-balanced, slightly spicy dram."

91 Points, IWSC: "Licorice sweets on the nose integrated with coriander seeds and spicy white pepper. Lovely complexity driven by woody, orris and cassia driven undertones."
