

Eifel German Peated Single Malt Whisky

2019 Special Release

A once in a lifetime limited release, Eifel Whisky's German Peated Single Malt Whisky was personally selected for the American market by Eifel Whisky's owner, Stephan Mohr, and Anthem Imports' owner, Fred Barnet. Only 1,200 bottles of this whisky were released, and when these bottles are gone, this product is gone forever. This whisky is distilled and bottled in Germany's Eifel region, a mountainous area with numerous active volcanos. Like all Anthem Imports producers, Eifel Whisky distills great spirits from great places, and offers consumers an opportunity to taste the terroir in these unique products. This German Single Malt Whisky is a blend of two different types of peated barley malt (5ppm and 30ppm, respectively). The whisky spends its first two years in refill ex-Bordeaux casks, made from American oak, and then rests for an additional four years in dark Moscatel casks. Every year, Eifel Whisky offers a one time only, special release of 1,200 bottles for the American market. It is safe to say that when these bottles are gone, there will never be another whisky like this available in the United States again.

RATINGS

93 Points, Whisky Advocate: "I'm calling this the pitmaster's dram: the nose has muscular peat smoke, prune juice, savory notes of barbecued brisket bark, venison charcuterie, and a hint of peppermint cream. The palate is a gluttonous feast of sweet dark fruits, milk chocolate, dried fig, plum, sultanas, and ginger, sliding into baked orange and spicy gingerbread, and wallowing luxuriously in chocolate and rich fruit. A welcome addition to Eifel's already impressive range. (1,200 bottles for the U.S.)"
